Welfare costs skyrocket

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

Welfare payments in Haliburton County for the month of April more than doubled compared to the same month last year.

Minden's Deputy-Reeve Bern Berry chairs the county's social services committee and at last Wednesday's county meeting he told council that social assistance payments this April were 103 per cent more than those paid in April 1989.

Berry also said that over the first four months of this year, payments have been more than 100 per cent higher than payments made during the same period last year.

"They are pretty alarming figures," said Berry.

The increase in putting a strain on resources, said Berry. Not only does the county fund 20 per cent of social assistance programs but the increased work load has also meant that social services staff have had to work overtime.

George Davidson, director of Haliburton County's Social Services Department, says the large increase in welfare payments is due to several factors.

The department is handling an increase case load from last year. Davidson says his office currently has 174 people receiving general

County presses for move to Allsaw

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

County council is sticking with its plan to move the county offices to the Allsaw Flats despite a request by Minden council to reconsider the relocation.

At last Wednesday's county meeting, councillors were presented with a letter from Minden asking that the county offices remain in Minden village.

Warden Don Shortreed said the decision to move the county offices has been discussed for several years and "did not come out of the blue." He said the county's present facility, located on Newcastle Street "has outlived its capacity to serve our needs."

Shortreed said he hopes the issue doesn't lead to a situation where county councillors end up fighting among themselves.

Every member of council was aware of the reasons for selecting the Allsaw property, said the warden, and buying the site was the result of planning for 20 years in the future.

The management committee has decided to go ahead with the purchase of the 4.6-acre site on Highway 121, said Shortreed.

Minden Deputy-Reeve Bern Berry, the one county councillor who opposes the proposed relocation, told council that alternatives to the Allsaw property have been suggested by Minden council.

Other possible sites for the offices in Minden village that Berry suggested include property at Hyland Crest and property near the Minden Arena. Berry also suggested the present facility can be expanded with the use of municipally-owned land to the rear of the building.

He said the four members of Minden council, including himself, who oppose the move would like the opportunity to investigate the issue. In order to ensure "harmony and good feelings", Berry asked that he and the other Minden councillors be allowed to meet with the management committee to discuss the move.

Lutterworth mill rate jumps by 21 per cent

Lutterworth residents will have to add another 21 per cent to their taxes this year.

Township council approved its 1990 budget last Wednesday, establishing a mill rate that reflects a 21 per cent increase in taxes to each residential ratepayer.

With the education levy for Lutterworth up 21.6 per cent and the county levy up 12.6 per cent, residents could expect an overall tax hike in the double digits.

(The education and county budgets are established independent of municipal budgets but are tacked on to the overall tax bill).

In spite of the large increases from the school board and the county, Reeve Carol Puffer said council decided it should not compromise services to the community. She said they "fine tuned" the budget as much as possible but noted that provincial aid has decreased overall.

After approving the new mill rate, Puffer highlighted some of the areas where the money will be going this year. The costs for general government are going up by 5.7 per cent, she said.

General Administration is up 8.3 per cent, partially

Dysart taxpayers hit with a 16 per cent increase

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

Ratepayers in Dysart are being asked to dig a little deeper into their pockets this year to come up with a 16 per cent increase in property taxes.

Council passed their 1990 budget at last Monday's meeting, failing to keep the increase in the municipal tax to 10 per cent as hoped. The township's share of the tax bill will increase by 14 per cent over last year.

Reeve Bill Davis says there were several projects added into the budget after the draft proposal which inflated the tax increase beyond 10 per cent.

"It's a very responsible budget," said Davis. He said money for the sewer project, repairs to the Dysart arena and a new $5,000 bridge for Head Lake Park are examples of expenditure commitments that council had to make.

Reduced government funding is another reason for the large increase says Davis. Because the province's portion of cost-shared programs has decreased, he says the municipality "has to spend more to get less." The overall level of the province's contribution to Dysart's budget has been reduced by two per cent from last year.

The budget also has to include a buffer to allow the township to respond to unforeseen expenditures in the months ahead, says Davis. "The budget is the best estimate of our expenditures for the year," he said. "But there are a lot of grey areas that we have to be prepared for."

One example of an uncertain cost is the amount of sand the roads department will need over the course of the winter, which will depend on the weather.

The 16 per cent total increase is the result of the 14 per cent municipal increase, the 19 per cent school board increase and the 10 per cent county increase.

Dysart is expecting to spend $3.36 million this year, an increase of 19 per cent over last year.

Some of the increases in municipal expenditures include: general government, 58 per cent; roads, 11.5 per cent; environment services, 17.4 per cent; and recreation 10.6 per cent.

The planning budget remains the same and protection to persons and property decreases by five per cent.

"We can't take care of all needs of everybody," says Davis. "But we took care of those items we felt were priorities."

The deal is dead

Robert Bury Company will not be buying the Harcourt saw mill

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

The Minister of Natural Resources signed the death certificate for the G.W. Martin sawmill in Harcourt last Friday and left 125 former employees without jobs.

Lyn McLeod has decided not to transfer the timber rights that were necessary for the mill to be sold to Robert Bury and Company, according to ministry spokesperson Helena Moncrieff.

"It was not an easy decision," Moncrieff told The Times Friday. "It took considerable time and deliberation to come up with some agreement that would be suitable."

But the final decision was not suitable to Robert Bury. Company president William Caine says the minister's decision makes it impossible for his company to go ahead with the purchase.

"As far as we're concerned the deal is dead," Caine said in an interview from his Montreal office. "I don't think much of the way Ontario does business."

Caine said he's been informed by the ministry that the timber rights won't be transferred although he hasn't yet received confirmation in writing.

The news of the decision came as a surprise to Caine, who said he's never experienced a similar situation during his career in the industry. "You'd never run into this in Quebec," he said.

Caine says he is at a loss to understand the minister's reasons for her decision. "What really puzzles me is that the timber was reserved for G.W. Martin and they would have retained the rights if they started up again," he said. "Maybe they don't like our money."

"All we asked for was to be on the same competitive basis with the Murray Brothers who are using Crown timber," said Caine. "Murray Brothers are cutting back their production but their timber rights aren't being cut back."

"It doesn't make sense. From a business point of view it just doesn't make sense."

Caine said the only reason the ministry gave him for denying his company the timber rights was that "they wanted to keep the wood as a bank in case in the future they don't have enough to go around. I don't know if I fully buy that."

And if the minister's decision is based on an attempt to preserve markets for the existing operations, Caine says "I don't think the government should interfere in the market place."

As far as Robert Bury is concerned, Caine says the company has other places it can invest money, but the loss of the Harcourt deal is still disheartening.

"We're very sorry we were not able to come to a deal," said Caine. "We were looking forward to coming to Harcourt."

The real tragedy of the situation is the fact that the future of the laid-off sawmill employees is now in doubt.

"They're the losers in all this by a long shot," says Caine.

G.W. Martin president Norman Laine says the demise of the Robert Bury deal means the Harcourt sawmill will probably never operate again.

"I don't think we'll find another buyer," said Laine. "Robert Bury was our last chance."

"We looked long and hard for a buyer, and I don't think we'll be looking any more," Laine said the remnants of the G.W. Martin Lumber Company won't be able to hang on past the end of May. After that the remaining assets of the company fall into the hands of the company's creditors.

Laine said the mill will likely be scrapped and sold for salvage.

According to Moncrieff, the minister was willing to issue Robert Bury a license to operate the sawmill, but not the rights to the Crown timber. She says the decision was based on the fact that only 30 per cent of the timber used by Martin Lumber when it ran the mill was from Crown land.

But Laine says that including timber from the Algonquin Forestry Authority, the percentage of Crown timber used by Martin was closer to 50 per cent.

Both Laine and Caine agree the mill would not be able to operate without the Crown timber. "The mill is too large to run with just private timber," said Laine.

McLeod felt her decision was the best, at this time, for timber management in the area, said Moncrieff. The Crown land used by Martin will be held in abeyance for two years.

Haliburton County Warden Don Shortreed was also aware of the minister's decision when contacted Friday, and said he wasn't really surprised by the news. "Not with all the rumours going around," said Shortreed. "I thought the minister would be more sympathetic. But it looks like the province is going to keep dishing out to the county the dirty end of the stick."

Shortreed says he doesn't know how the 125 jobs can be replaced in the county but he promised the support of the county government.

"We'll do everything we can at the present time," said Shortreed. "We tried to do every thing we could, including meeting with the minister."

He said he wants to hear the minister's reasons for the decision and he won't take anything "at face value."

Shortreed said Martin's former employees should go after the minister for her decision. "I think they should speak up," he said. "They're the ones directly affected by this."

"We'll support any movement they have," he said. "Maybe their voice will carry a little more weight."

Despite the fact that Caine, Laine and The Times were all told by the ministry that the timber rights have been denied, Victoria-Haliburton MPP John Eakins says no final decision has been announced by McLeod.

After he was asked about the decision on Friday, Eakins contacted McLeod and spoke to her about the timber rights. In a subsequent interview, Eakins said the matter still under review.

But Eakins admitted that after he met with McLeod and G.W. Martin executives, the minister was "leaning towards not allowing the transfer of the timber rights."

Eakins said McLeod is intending to announce her final decision early this week, and he expects to be among the first people notified.

He said the fact that Caine and Laine had already been told the decision has been made must have been "an error" by ministry staff.

If McLeod announces the timber rights will not be transferred, Eakins said he will be "disappointed" and will want a full explanation of the decision.

Councillors fear 'family feud' is brewing

"I implore county council to keep good relations with Anson, Hindon and Minden," said Berry. "This is not meant as a threat or words of anger but the property will have to be rezoned and the township has control of that. We don't want to do that."

He urged council to allow the Minden councillors to voice their concerns.

Bicroft Reeve Bill Howe immediately reacted to Berry's comments about the rezoning. "I hope I didn't hear that right," Howe said. He called Berry's statement, "a veiled threat."

"Is Anson, Hindon and Minden saying that unless we have the offices in the village we're going to have trouble with the zoning," Howe asked Berry.

Howe said there are 10 municipalities in the county and his township, Bicroft, is in the most easterly part of the county.

Bicroft could easily want to be part of Hastings County, said Howe, because his township is so close to Bancroft. "But we don't think that way," said Howe. "We think as a county."

The new site would allow the county to put everything under one roof and make it easier for people to access the services they need, said Howe. Because the new location is still in Anson, Hindon and Minden, Howe said the municipality won't be losing the tax base. "I hope this is not a family feud," he said.

Stanhope Deputy-Reeve Ann Barker reiterated the fact that the proposed move is a response to long-term needs, not just the immediate situation.

"I would like to remind Mr. Berry that next year there will be an election and your council might not be there," said Barker. "We have to think of the future."

Shortreed said he hopes the county doesn't get into a situation where they have to do a study to determine a location for offices. "I think county council was right to make the decision," he said.

Cardiff Reeve Maurice Bradley noted the initiatives currently being undertaken by the county, including the Official Plan, the Economic Development Strategy and the Waste Management Master Plan, which will require an increase in county staff.

Bradley also hinted that efforts are being made to bring other agencies under the county's jurisdiction, although he would not specify which programs he's referring to.

"Staying in Minden would not encourage that to happen," said Bradley. "We would lose the potential if we stay here."

Moving the county building closer to other population centres would encourage the addition of other services, he said.

Bradley also made reference to Berry's remark about any zoning changes the Allsaw property would have to undergo, saying he hoped the threat "is not heard too loudly."

Stanhope Reeve Harry Davis said the Management Committee was elected to make this sort of decision, and although some objections were expected, he said the county has to "overcome some of that and go on and do what we intended."

Minden Reeve Ray Moore has been the one Minden councillor who continues to support the move to Allsaw and said his stand has caused him to be criticized in the press.

Moore also said he's not involved in the opposition being mounted by the rest of Minden council. "I don't know if they've got together and discussed it. If they have, they've done it without my knowledge."

Only two Minden residents have expressed opposition to the move to him, said Moore, "with the exception of the four council members."

"I still stand by my decision," he said. Moore said he realizes that there is a history of rivalry between the villages of Haliburton and Minden but called the feuding "ridiculous."

"It still exists with some council members," said Moore.

Dysart Reeve Bill Davis said he's concerned about a cartoon that appeared in the May 7 issue of The Times which depicted a collection of buildings at the Allsaw Flats.

Among the buildings shown is an ambulance base. Davis said there has never been any suggestion from the management committee that the ambulance should be relocated along with the rest of the county offices.

Lutterworth Deputy-Reeve Jim McMahon said regardless of where the new county building is located it will draw in some of the smaller agencies in the county.

McMahon is a director for the Haliburton County Development Corporation (HCDC), and said that agency is now paying high rent for accommodation in Haliburton village.

By providing space for organizations like the HCDC in the new building, McMahon said the county could collect the rent instead of private individuals and everything can be housed at one location.

Shortreed said the Management Committee's proposal is not "a band-aid solution" but is an effort to plan for the next 25 to 30 years.

He said the Management Committee would meet with the Minden councillors opposed to the move, although the purchase of the Allsaw property will go through. The Management Committee will keep an open mind, and "show good faith," said Shortreed.

Hasty decision

Some will agree that Minden Councillors have made some decisions they will grow to regret, but this time there is no disputing their folly.

Last week the councillors and municipal staff made the fatal mistake of accepting a challenge from The Times to battle it out under the lights in a game of baseball.

It's obvious this decision was made in haste. A feasibility study would certainly have uncovered the awesome talent of the Times bench and scared them off.

Even a casual glance at The Times roster should have been enough to make them shudder. With Jack (beanball) Brezina on the mound, Jay (road-block) Kerr-Wilson at first, Autumn (the atom) Davis at second, Russ (over-confidence) Duhaime at short and Carol (carrot-top) Moffatt at third, The Times has an ominous infield.

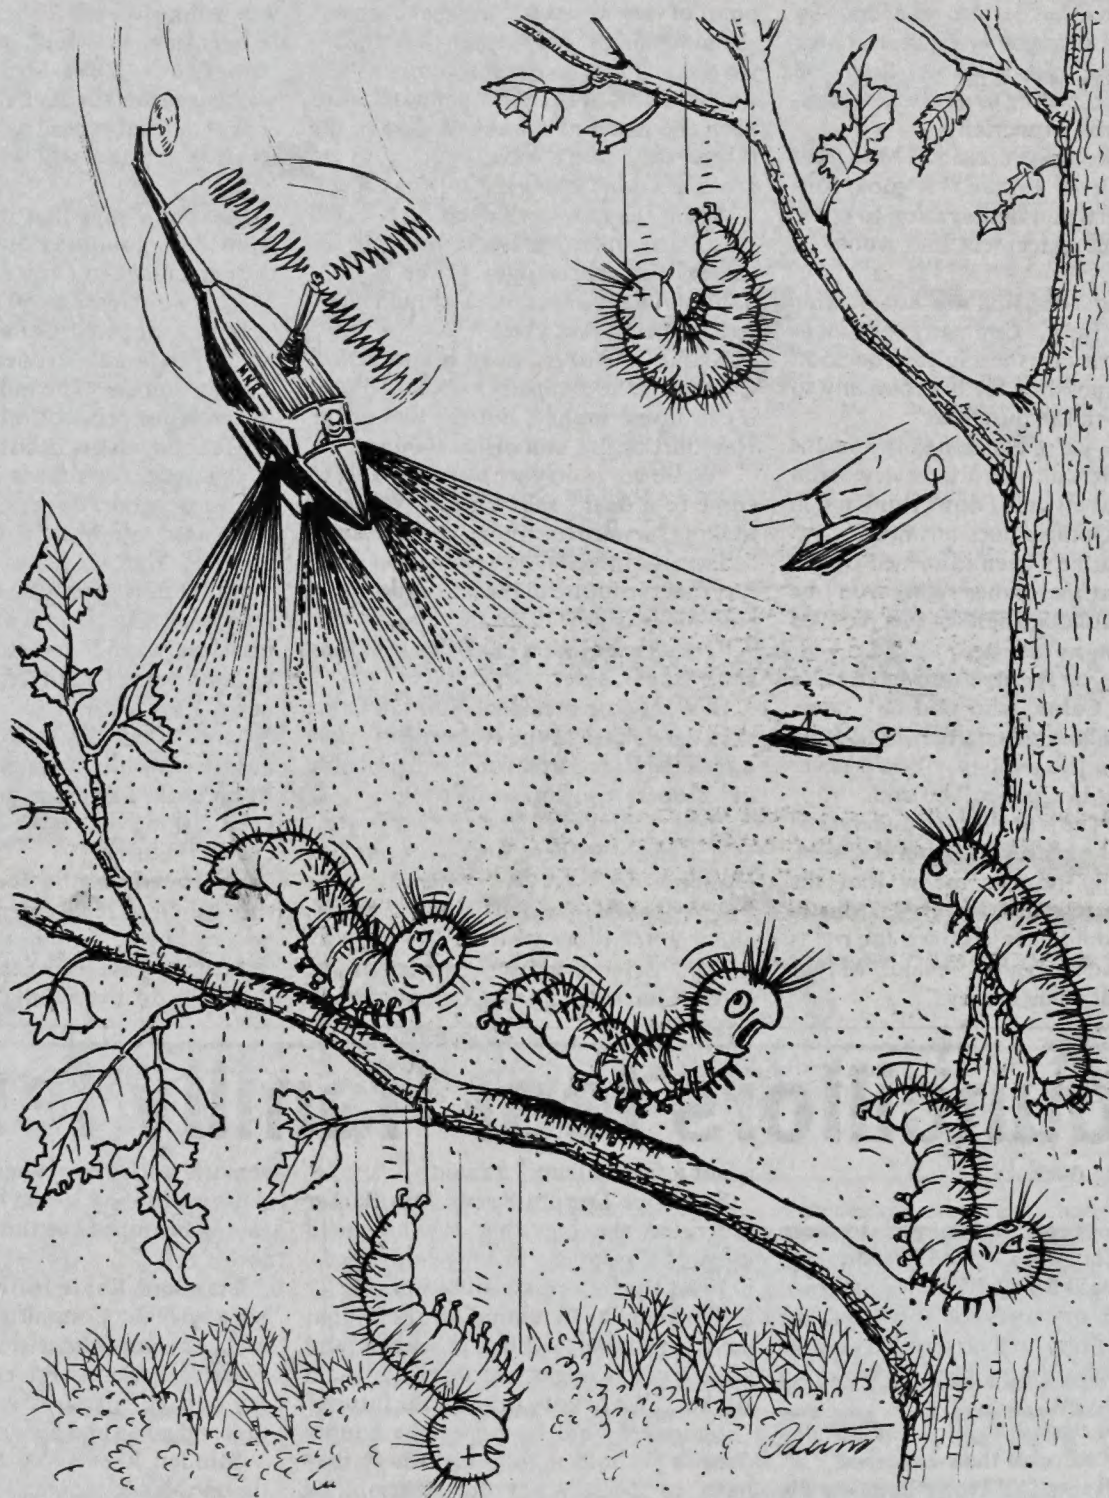

And if that's not enough, take a look at this outfield—Melanie (crazy legs) Legge in left, Mike (the hammer) Shirley in centre and Lisa (shoe-string) Bagshaw in right.

But don't be deceived—The Times is a whole lot more than an outstanding defensive team. The impressive batting power of Ken (too-tall) Beers and Suzie (Q) Wilson will have the municipal fielders positioned beyond the outfield fence if they hope to even catch a glance at one of their long balls.

Parks manager Ivan (foul ball) Ingram and Deputy Reeve Bern (the fan) Berry, however, say they are more than ready to meet this challenge. So far, they're keeping their roster under tight wraps—a transparent ploy to keep coaches Susan (strongarm) Beers and (mighty) Margot Ziorjen guessing.

The assault begins on Sunday, June 3 at 6 p.m. on Minden's new diamond. A collection will be taken and proceeds will go to the Hyland Crest bus fund.

The game will not be played under the lights because the red faces on the municipal team will be enough to light up the field.

"BIOLOGICAL WARFARE AGAINST LITTLE CHILDREN—THAT'S GOTTA BE CONTRARY TO THE GENEVA CONVENTION!"

There's a fine line between hoarding and collecting

If an individual collects anything long enough, it will eventually have some value.

Dr. Alfred Kinsey

Well, Doctor Kinsey would know, I guess. He's the guy who spent several years buttonholing perfect strangers and writing down details of their sex lives. Eventually, his jottings became the famous Kinsey Report, which loosened the bustles and wiggled the Long John of North America in the mid-Fifties.

I'm glad to hear that the mere act of hoarding creates value in a collection. That means the five cardboard boxes and two duffle bags mouldering

Black 'n White

by Arthur Black

quietly in the back of my closet may actually be worth something some day.

What's in them? Nothing that anybody else cares about, near as I can tell. The boxes contain several dozens copies of a comic book series called Jonah Hex. (Long out of print and deservedly so). I just dumped one of the duffle bags out on the floor and I'm up to my fibules in the treasures therein. To wit: two old baseball mitts, various old high school yearbooks, some yellowing newspapers, two harmonicas, a couple of jack knives, three yo-yos, a bow tie that lights up, a chunk of coral, a pair of ear muffs, a Cisco Kid gun holster, a...well, you get the idea.

I'm a hoarder—card-carrying. As a matter of fact, business cards are one of the things I hoard. I find many things difficult in this world—metric conversion, F stops, women, conversational Urdu—but the hardest thing of all is to throw things away. I

Depot booth at fun fair

Editor:

Hi again. Thank you to everyone who brought in their piles of clothes. We received many new clothes and some not so new. As you may know, our second clothes reuse depot is at the end of May.

Saturday, May 26 is our Fun Fair at Archie Stouffer. We will have a depot booth there. The following week, May 28-31, will be your last chance this school year. If you are planning on finishing your spring cleaning and don't know where to put all the old clothes, just bring them to the school. This clothes reuse depot will be in the same place as the last one. For those of you who do not know where that is, it is in the main hall of Archie Stouffer Elementary School. From 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. will be the time.

If you could not make it to the last clothes reuse depot in March, here's your second chance to come and donate your old clothes.

Thanks,
Susan Carr and Sarah Ladurantaye 5B

Not in the book

Editor:

I met this lovely woman the other day. She was pleasant, intelligent, warm and funny. I felt lucky to have made her acquaintance, as our chance meeting was due to literally bumping into each other in a store! We exchanged names and parted with the intention of keeping in touch. When I went to call her, there just can't do it. I keep everything.

(more on page 10)

...and Arthur has crossed that line

It might not be so bad if I trimmed my inventory. Harley Yates of Tahoe, California restricts himself to door keys. He's got a little over 50,000 in his collection. New Yorker Walt Kaufman is only interested in cigarettes. He's got 8,017 different brands. Jarrod Booth of SaltSpring Island, B.C., sticks to Christmas Cards. He's got more than 200,000 in his collection. Or, take Brother Giovanni Battista Orsenigo, of Rome. Brother Giovanni was a nineteenth century religious dentist who decided to keep every tooth he pulled. At the end of his career his closet contained precisely 2,000,744 teeth.

You see what those folks have that I don't have? They specialize. One line only. They're collectors; I'm a packrat.

Mind you, I'm not the most rabid of the species. You'll find those wretches down in Garden Grove, California. Every Tuesday night they get together around an industrial size urn of hot coffee and talk about "saving".

It's the regular weekly meeting of Pack Rats Anonymous.

Sound ludicrous, but the hoarding instinct among these folks is anything but funny. The members collect everything from paper clips to fabric remnants. One of the members filled her house so full of newspapers and flyers that she's now putting them in kitchen cabinets—even in the refrigerator.

The affliction can even be deadly. A few years ago, two New York twin brothers hit the news when authorities broke into their home to investigate suspected foul play. The authorities found two corpses and newspapers. Tons of them. The brothers had stuffed the house until only winding narrow tunnels connected the room. One of the tunnels had collapsed and killed them both.

The most frustrating thing about 'pack rat-ism' is how little is known about it. It affects people of all ages, all backgrounds, all races, religions. Pack rats can be rich or poor, male or female, smart or dumb. They may be utterly normal in every other aspect of their life and saddest of all, they may not even give a damn about the stuff they collect. They just can't bear to throw it out.

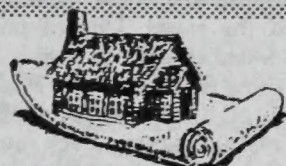

So why do they do it? Somebody once asked Mister R.L. Chapman to explain his hobby. He replied "I collect barbed wire because I collect barbed wire."

And, unsatisfying as it is, that's just about all you can say about the pack rat business.

The grade seven and eight bands at Archie Stouffer Elementary School entertained a gymnasium crowded with family and friends last Thursday. The repertoire ranged from the theme from Beethoven's fifth symphony played by the grade eight band to a drum solo written and performed by Max Sennitt. The evening, featuring some outstanding talent, was punctuated with several fine solo performances, a bit of humour and only a few minor technical difficulties. Above, Cheri Rivard performs a 4-step Highland Dance.

Small funnel cloud hits Kushog Lake

by Carol Moffatt

A small tornado swept through part of Haliburton on Thursday afternoon, uprooting trees and damaging small boats.

A black funnel zig-zagged across Kushog Lake, where most of the damage occurred, and disappeared somewhere near Boshkung Lake.

Bill Park, who runs Kushog Lake Marina, said the weather changed suddenly and then he saw the twister. "All I could think of was 'oh no, not again'," he said. Park was referring to the tornado of 1986 which did millions of dollars in damage from one end of Haliburton to the other.

"The rain suddenly got heavy and large," he said. "Then the wind picked up and I saw that thing coming across the bay. I ran and yelled at mom and at (the mechanics) to get down into the basement," he said. Park said he could see the funnel pulling up water and debris from the lake and spinning it around.

The marina dock was pulled from the shore and shaken around, but Park said it doesn't appear to have sustained any major damage. "It's moved, though, and that's 12,000 pounds of weights holding it down," he said. Bolts holding the docks together will need to be re-tightened, an annual spring job Park had just recently finished.

The wind toppled trees, pulling several huge firs up by the roots on John Maxwell's island just off the shore of the marina.

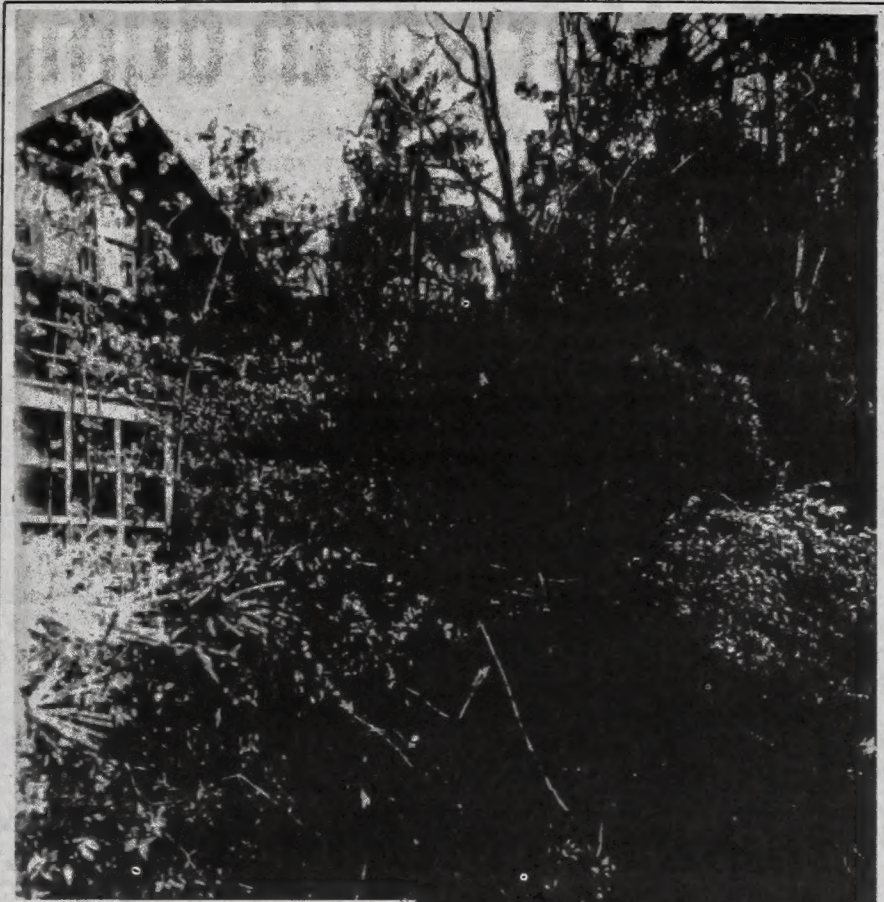

Across from the island, more trees on the shore were lying sideways, but fortunately no buildings were damaged.

A $5,000 boat in storage at the marina was damaged, as were two aluminum boats owned by Keith Purdy. The extent of the damage to any of the three boats won't be known until the trees which fell on them can be cut off.

The Severe Weather Centre in Toronto designated the storm a weak tornado after hearing details of it. Mike Leduc said a cold front came in sometime in the early afternoon, causing damage in Barrie, Muskoka and Haliburton. Most of the damage was downed trees, but there were reports of some downed power lines.

Leduc said such 'convective storms' are complicated and deciding when a storm becomes a tornado is difficult. He said what happened on Kushog Lake could be similar to what happens in a fast flowing stream when small eddies are created. The edges of the lines of wind create swirls that get bigger and stronger as they move. The big difference, and one which Leduc couldn't determine, is whether the swirl comes down from the clouds or up from the water or land.

Ontario Hydro said a small blackout was reported on Boshkung Lake and there were others reported on Crystal Lake, Pine Lake and Tamarack Lake. Full damage estimates won't be known until cottagers arrive to assess their properties, most likely this past weekend.

Bill Park holds a piece of his 12,000 pound dock that was pushed around like a flutterboard in Thursday's tornado. Above, a huge fir tree lies uprooted beside John Maxwell's island cottage on Kushog Lake.

Owner threatens to close Lutterworth dump

Lutterworth's Steel's dump will be closed in two weeks unless the owner of the property soon finds some satisfaction.

In no uncertain terms, Joe Samutt told Lutterworth Council he is prepared to close the dump unless the township pays him an amount equal to what it would cost to fence the 1.5-acre property.

For the past 17 years Samutt has leased a small portion of his 200-acre property to the township to be used for landfill. Initially, he saw no harm in this agreement, but now that he is prepared to develop some of his land he is running into a nightmare of regulations and red tape.

The township has more than two years left on its lease of the dump site, but Samutt says the township has violated the lease by not fencing the site.

"You people have actually devastated my property," he said.

However, he no longer wants the township to put up a fence. The damage has been done, he said. He now wants cash in lieu of the fencing, he said at Thursday's council meeting.

Fencing is useless at this point, said Samutt. For years, he said, litter from the dump has blown about the rest of his property and people have come in and cut trees for firewood.

Samutt, 58, bought the property 40 years ago as a "nest egg." Seventeen years ago he signed a 10-year lease, allowing the township to use five acres for landfill. The lease was renewed seven years ago with a doubling of the rent.

Several months ago, Samutt applied to sever a few lots and was shocked to discover he may not be allowed to build within a quarter of a mile of the landfill.

Clearly frustrated by this situation,

Samutt asked the township to willingly abandon the dump. "I'm asking you people in good faith to get out. It's my land that I've had since I was 18."

When he first entered into the agreement with the municipality, he was happy to get the $300 rent. However, there's a lot more at stake now if he can't build on his land.

"It's my own fault," he said. "It was a big joke 17 years ago but it's no joke anymore." The rent he gets from the township doesn't even cover his taxes and unless he can build on the property, he says his land is almost worthless.

"I have a lot of land that is absolutely useless," he said. He also threatened to sell the whole 200 acres as a landfill site.

Although only 1.5 acres of the property has been used as a dump, Samutt's entire property has been designated as landfill.

"I will sell it as a dump," he told council. "I hate the word and I'll be sorry for the neighbours. . ."

Ironically, some of Samutt's neighbours have been allowed to build even though they are within a quarter of a mile of the Steels dump. Reeve Carol Puffer explained that these people were lucky enough to get their building permits before a new representative of the Ministry of Environment came on board.

"At the time, there was a different representative of the MOE," said Puffer. Now, Samutt and the township are dealing with Senior Environmental Officer Brian Howden and neither are satisfied with any of the answers he provides.

Puffer said the township has put forth a great deal of effort and money in an attempt to address Samutt's concerns and appease the ministry. She said gates have been installed, the site is now manned during open hours and a survey of the property has been conducted. In addition, she said the township is preparing to spend "tens of thousands of dollars" for a hydrology study to determine if the water table is contaminated by leachates from the dump.

Samutt, however, is not interested in hydrology study and is not satisfied with the survey.

Samutt downplayed the worry about leachate. "Why are they afraid of this word called leachate," he asked.

"All (the ministry) is worried about is leachate," said Samutt. "Five million tires burn (in Hagersville) and the MOE says there's very little damage. What a crock . . . but all they worry about here is the water table."

Contacted Friday, Howden said he hopes to address the situation when he meets with council this Wednesday.

Regarding Samutt's proposal to develop some of his property, Howden noted that the township, not the ministry, is responsible for issuing building permits. Ministry regulations say a landfill site cannot be operated within a quarter of a mile of a landfill area. Whether or not a dwelling can be built within this buffer zone is another question.

If asked, however, Howden said he would not recommend the creation of lots within this area.

Normally, the ministry would be asked for its input in the event of a rezoning request. The ministry isn't normally contacted for severances or building permits.

If the dump is closed, a hydrology study will have to be completed, said Howden. This will determine how much of the ground water surrounding the dump is contaminated.

Haliburton officer takes to streets at the start of June

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

OPP Constable Ron Buchanan will be walking the beat in Haliburton village as of June 1.

Staff Sergeant Bill Elliott and Sergeant Doug Bernardi were on hand at last Monday's meeting of Dysart council to explain the new community-based policing which will be taking effect next month.

Council is planning a public meeting on Thursday May 24, at the Haliburton Legion at 8 pm to deal with the subject.

Elliott said the initiative has been discussed for some time and is now an official force policy. As of June 1, "when ever possible there will be a man available in Haliburton village," he said.

Because Buchanan is the only officer to be designated for the village, his work hours will have to be scheduled around times when he will be needed most.

"The concept goes back years and years," said Elliot. "We're getting back to

Minden asks for bridge

A proposal to reroute part of Deep Bay Road could open up hundreds of acres of servicable property in Lutterworth Township.

It could also create a much-needed second bridge across the Gull River in Minden, says Minden council.

Minden Council has asked the county roads committee to consider diverting the south end of Deep Bay Road to cross the Gull River and Lutterworth Boundary Road and meet back up with Highway 35, south of the village near Highway 121.

Council sent a letter to the chairman of the county roads committee on May 1. A copy of that letter was also sent to Lutterworth Council for its consideration.

Although the letter hints at potential prosperity for Lutterworth, that township's councillors weren't overly keen on the idea when it was addressed last Thursday.

Councillor Lisa Mercer said she isn't sure it is warranted right now. She also expressed some reservations about linking Lutterworth properties to Minden's sewer and water plants.

In the letter, Minden council says the northwest quadrant of the village has the greatest potential for growth of housing, industrial development, educational facilities, seniors housing and recreational pursuits. This could be facilitated by diverting the road south on the road allowance between Concession A and Concession I in Anson Township.

The total project length would be less than a mile, council says in the letter. "However, there are a couple of physical constraints that shall be expensive and the project may require substantial supplementary financial assistance from the province."

The letter, signed by all Minden council members, says this project would create long-term benefits to Lutterworth and Minden. The balance of Deep Bay Road would return to the municipality.

"The new road would give a second entrance to Minden Village and a second bridge across Gull River," they say in the letter. "This would alleviate congestion and stress over the Bobcaygeon Road bridge for fire, ambulance and large trucks. Summer and year-round residents would access this road, rather than come through our congested downtown core."

"Should we experience a disaster on the present bridge an alternative access would be available to all those citizens north of the Gull River."

The letter has yet to be discussed at an open meeting of County Council.

Residents want sewage work delayed until plan finished

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

Dysart council has given the go ahead for tenders to be called for the proposed sewage line extension on the north shore of Lake Kashagawigamog.

But property owners on the lake chain want construction delayed until a pollution control plan for the Drag River system is in place.

Implementation of a pollution control plan was one of the conditions set by Environment Minister Jim Bradley when he approved Dysart's sewage expansion project.

The control plan must identify the causes and extent of water quality deterioration in the Drag River system, and propose solutions to the problem.

The deadline for completion of the plan is April, 1992 by which time the township hopes to have completed construction on the sewer line.

But John Puffer, president of the Lake Kashagawigamog Property Owners Association has sent a letter to Bradley asking for the sewer project to be delayed until after the plan is complete.

"It seems illogical and economically unsound to proceed with the expansion of the sewage treatment plant before the pollution control plan is implemented," Puffer said in his letter.

Puffer said allowing construction on the extension to proceed before the plan is completed is not consistent with Bradley's stated concerns about water quality in the lake chain.

The association is very much in favour of a pollution control plan to outline the nature, cause and extent of the lake chain's water pollution problem.

PRIDE project prompts BIA debate

by Carol Moffatt

Heated debate rang through the council chambers at Tuesday's BIA meeting. Although only five of the 40-odd members showed up, those who were there had plenty to say about the issues at hand.

The liveliest discussion centered around Main Street's cosmetic surgery. Jim McMahon of McMahon Feed 'N Harness was the most outspoken, saying council worked on a "cosmetics-first, priorities-last" basis. There was considerable concern about the reduced turning radius in Main Street because of the new corners. Lewis Stevens, council representative for the BIA defended the reconstruction, asking it be given a chance.

The idea, said Stevens, was to make the street "workable and pleasing to the eye." The original engineering plans called for larger 'balloons' at the corners which would have reduced the street size even more. Council tested the plans by inviting Tom Prentice and John Kernohan to drive their biggest floats through Main Street at 2 p.m. on a Monday.

The drivers couldn't fit their rigs around the chalked-out marks on the road so the plans were cut back to where the trucks could fit. In a telephone interview, Kernohan said the float did fit around the corner but it was "pretty tight." To make the turn, the driver must go on the wrong side of the road and there cannot be any cars at the intersection. Kernohan said his drivers have to simply avoid that corner now. He said the corner at the bank is bad as well. "We can fit around there if there's no one unloading at the Rockcliffe but I don't know what will happen there in the summer," he said.

Kevin Zalinsky expressed concern for less experienced drivers trying to get around the corners and McMahon questioned the ease with which bus coaches would be able to get through town to the depot. With the summer season approaching, more cars in the streets means less space and time to negotiate the corners. Traffic congestion will drive shoppers away and that's the opposite of what council is attempting with the beautification project.

McMahon asked what the exact purpose of the PRIDE project was, saying he felt it was probably for brightening up Main Street, not for "changing the corners and making the road smaller." Stevens said the idea was to make Main Street pleasing and friendly for newcomers. The balloons on the corners are meant to stop illegal parking too close to the junctions, which blocks the view of oncoming traffic.

Stevens said there isn't much use in complaining now that the work is almost completed. He said if the changes affect traffic movement this summer, the engineers will be recalled. "If it's not workable, we'll soften the corners," he said.

PARKING

Parking was another topic of discussion at the meeting. A by-law officer has been hired to monitor the new parking regulations on Main Street. Ed Burke has been contracted for the summer to patrol the area, handing out tickets to cars parked illegally, over the two-hour limit or double parked.

The lack of parking for the summer season was an issue of concern as well. "If they can't park on Main Street, where are they going to park," asked McMahon. It was suggested that the open area on Peck Street be cleaned up, but Stevens said repeated efforts by council to take over the land for parking have been turned down.

Stevens said the parking deficit would be "a definite problem at times", but offered no alternatives for the problem. McMahon countered that "it won't be a problem when you drive the small businessmen out onto the bypass."

McMahon said he feels the new Heritage Plaza will keep shoppers from coming into Main Street to shop when there is a plaza right on the highway. Stevens called the plaza a mirror to the town and said Main Street should start at the bypass and continue on its current path.

RAFT RACE

Cam Monk requested funding for the third annual Crazy Raft Race to be held on June 30 on the Gull River. He received $600 for expenses and advertising which he expects to be a little less than last year.

Poor attendance made the meeting short. In order to avoid a similar poor turnout for the next meeting, it was agreed that it would be held on June 12. Stevens said a member list will be distributed in order that members can advise each other of when the meetings are to be held.

County debates GST and votes to oppose it

Haliburton County Council has added its voice to those opposing the federal government's proposed Goods and Services Tax (GST).

In a resolution passed at last Wednesday's meeting, councillors agreed to ask Finance Minister Michael Wilson to abolish the tax due to the negative impact it will have on the tourism industry.

The resolution was brought to the table by Dysart Reeve Bill Davis who said the proposed seven per cent tax will have a direct negative impact on tourism, Haliburton County's number one industry.

Davis said Prime Minister Brian Mulroney has written off $180 million in debts to Caribbean countries whose primary industry is tourism, and at the same time introduced a tax which will hurt tourism in Canada.

"If we look away and let the GST come in we're going to lose our number one industry," said Davis. "We can't idly stand back and say 'if we don't rock the boat, we hope something comes our way,'" said Davis.

Minden Deputy-Reeve Bern Berry said that while supporting underdeveloped countries isn't wrong, "the home fires should be looked after."

Not all county councillors supported the idea of a blanket condemnation of the GST. Sherborne Deputy-Reeve Hans Liebmann said "it's one thing to condemn such a thing as the tax, it's another thing to bring alternatives forward and think of other ways to raise taxes."

The proposed GST will replace the existing federal tax on manufactured goods. Dysart Deputy-Reeve Lloyd Leadbeater said it's important to take an over-all view of the effect of the GST.

Leadbeater, who's background is in manufacturing, said the removal of the manufacturers tax will improve the position of industry to sell their products on the world market. "I don't think we should ignore that the GST will have some benefit to some parts of society," said Leadbeater.

He also echoed Liebmann's concerns with criticizing the tax without suggesting alternatives.

Microft Reeve Bill Howe said the tax will end up costing the area a lot of money and will be a "monstrosity" for small businesses.

Warden Don Shortreed commended council on debating the issue. He said too often motions come before council and are passed with no discussion. "I'm happy the members stated the way they feel," Shortreed said.

Dorset acid rain report

The following report on precipitation events was recorded at the Ministry of Environment acid rain testing station in Dorset and compiled by Environment Canada.

This report covers the period of May 5 to May 12.

May 7, 10 mm rain, 4.7 pH, from Michigan to Lake Huron.

May 8, 1 mm rain, 5.4 pH, from Ohio to Southern Ontario.

May 9, 1 mm rain, 4.2 pH, from Ohio to Southern Ontario.

May 10, 14 mm rain, 4.3 pH from Northern Ontario to Lake Huron.

Environmental damage is usually observed in sensitive areas regularly receiving precipitation with pH less than 4.7. Readings of 4.0 pH or less are considered dangerous. The lower the reading, the more acidic the precipitation.

Fred Chapple and Dick Thompson enjoy a coffee and a joke at the new Take Time Coffee Shop in the Zion United Church in Carnarvon. The shop is open from 9 a.m. until noon on weekdays and all are invited to drop in for a fresh muffin and a good hot cuppa.

Just folks talking to folks

by Carol Moffatt

People in Carnarvon looking for a morning break of a different kind can stop their search: the Take Time Coffee Shop is open for business.

From 9 a.m. until noon each weekday, the coffee shop offers fresh brewed coffee and muffins to local residents, workers and passersby alike. It's located in the Zion United Church on West Road, just off highway 35.

The venture is an attempt to make the church facilities more available to the public. Currently, the church is used only on Sundays and sometimes for parties or gatherings like the upcoming Strawberry

Tea.

The kitchen is large and well-equipped and can easily handle more than coffee and muffins, but for now, that's what's on the menu. Dick Thompson and Fred Chapple are the organizers of the coffee shop. Chapple owns and runs the Four Seasons grocery store across the highway, where the coffee and muffins come from. Dick Thompson runs the coffee shop.

"It's a good idea. A place to sit and chat and have a coffee," said Thompson. "Just folks talking to folks," he said. Business has been good and Thompson would like to encourage more people to drop in for a peek. And there's a guarantee: A good cup of coffee or your money back!

County welfare system strained

Reforms, poor economy result in increased payments assistance compared to 100 people at the same time last year.

One of the reasons for the increased case load is the fact that more people are unemployed due to the current economic downturn.

High interest rates have resulted in a decrease in home construction and a slower economy has meant less jobs in the tourism industry.

Davidson says that jobs which people held last winter may not have been available this winter, so more people required financial assistance.

"Last year there was a good economy with very few employable people receiving assistance," said Davidson. "I don't know what this summer will bring."

The shutdown of the G.W. Martin sawmill in Harcourt may also have had an effect on the number of available jobs, says Davidson. Many former Martin employees would have the experience and training to find employment elsewhere, occupying jobs that people with less experience might have held.

But Davidson admits it's difficult to say how many of the 125 Martin employees found work elsewhere and how many collected Unemployment Insurance.

The one factor that has probably contributed most to the increase in assistance payments is the governments recent welfare reform program.

Under the reforms, which began in October of last year, more people now qualify for financial assistance and the amount of money being paid to each recipient has increased, says Davidson.

"More money is getting to children and single parents than last year," says Davidson. "A major part of the reform is increasing help to women and children."

One area where the reforms seem to be succeeding is in allowing people with children to get into the workforce.

Under the old system, many people could not afford to work because the wages they earned weren't enough to cover child care costs.

The reformed system allows people to work and still receive financial assistance to help cover child care costs. Davidson says this allows single parents to take lower paying jobs and upgrade their skills and training to move on to higher paying jobs and eventually off of the welfare system.

Another indication that the reforms are working is the fact that food banks in Toronto are reporting that they are handing out 10 per cent less food than at the same time a year ago.

This may be due, in part, to the extra money being pumped into the system, says Davidson. He said there isn't enough available information to indicate whether or not the reforms are working in Haliburton County.

Some increase in assistance payments is to be expected as part of the government reform. Davidson says phase one of the changes result in higher costs to the province and the county as more people begin receiving more money.

But as people take advantage of training and employment opportunities while receiving support, the hope is that they will become more self-sufficient and eventually require little or no assistance.

Because the county is responsible for paying 20 per cent of welfare assistance, Davidson said that naturally any large increase is a concern to councillors.

One of the problems with the system is that the times when people need help most, during a slow economy, is the time when the county can least afford to raise taxes. "It's kind of backwards," says Davidson.

A recently released review of the social assistance system in Ontario suggests that financial responsibility should not fall on the municipalities.

Compiled by the Ministry of Community and Social Services, the report recommends that welfare payments should be jointly funded 100 per cent by the provincial and federal governments.

Although payment would still be administered by the county the system would be regulated and managed by the province.

Whatever changes occur to the system Davidson said there are some people in Haliburton County who need assistance but won't request it.

"In the county a lot of people still believe in the old values of self-sufficiency and they won't apply for assistance," says Davidson. And despite the reforms, he says there are people who will always need help.

"There are people who will never earn more than $10 an hour who have a large number of dependants," says Davidson. "They may always be on social assistance."

Short on funds, MNR asks Sherborne to take over care of tower location

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

The Ministry of Natural Resources is looking for someone to assume the maintenance of the grounds surrounding the Dorset look-out tower.

Sherborne Reeve Don Shortreed told county council at last Wednesday's meeting that the ministry has approached his township about taking over the landmark.

The tower, which used to be a Department of Lands and Forests fire tower, is owned and maintained by the federal Government Services office in Lindsay. But the land upon which the tower sits is provincially owned Crown Land and its upkeep is the responsibility of the Ministry of Natural Resources.

Shortreed said the tower is a landmark and a tourist attraction which benefits the whole county and he would hate to see it disappear.

"I hope the rest of the county pulls together and backs us on this," said Shortreed.

In an interview later in the week, Shortreed said the ministry doesn't have the funds necessary to maintain the tower grounds.

Because Sherborne's budget for 1990 has been set, Shortreed said the request from the ministry to assume the site has come at a bad time.

One of the major problems experienced at the tower is vandalism, says Shortreed. "It's the shame the public doesn't respect it," he says. "We have something nice and they abuse it."

Two toilets at the tower had to be closed because they were vandalized beyond repair, says Shortreed.

Currently maintenance for the tower grounds are the responsibility of the ministry's Arrowhead National Park office.

Acting Park Supervisor Gary Oram says he thinks the municipality could do more for the area around the park than the ministry.

"That's the direction we're looking to go," says Oram. "The tower is a part of the local history and with its background the village of Dorset can take better care and attention to it.

Oram says the municipality may have access to government funded programs for park improvements that would allow the park to be more fully developed to its potential. "It might play more of a township park role than a provincial park role," he said.

"Our operating dollars only allow us to maintain it, I'd like to see it enhanced and grow," said Oram. "The township can do this better than we can."

"It's costing more and more and our operating dollars are less and less. The residents would be better landlords," he said.

Maintenance of the grounds is tendered out by the ministry and the work involves cutting the grass, maintaining the washrooms, doing minor repairs, picking up litter and hauling it to the land-fill site, staining the picnic tables, taking regular sample of water from the drinking fountain for testing by the Ministry of Health and inspecting the condition of the lights.

With municipal involvement Oram says the site could be developed for more day use as a picnic area and park. "They can use their imagination."

Oram says it's possible that the whole facility could be turned over to Sherborne, if the township wants it, to the point of deeding the land to the municipality.

Although Sherborne is in a tight financial situation, Shortreed says the township might try and work something out in the future with regards to the tower.

Rising costs make taxes soar

due to pay increases of 5.6 per cent for staff. In addition, council plans to provide better access to the municipal offices this year and is purchasing some new equipment for the office.

The cost for fire protection is expected to rise another 15 per cent. This expense is beyond council's control since the municipality rents fire protection from neighbouring municipalities.

The roads budget is increasing 39 per cent, said Puffer. The main reason for this increase is that two costly pieces of equipment need replacing. The roads department is also in the process of acquiring property to accommodate its facilities, she said.

Lutterworth's budget for environment services is going 91 per cent this year. This increase is mainly due to the skyrocketing costs involved with waste management. The municipality has had to hire an additional part-time employee to work at the landfill sites this summer. In addition, council has chosen to go ahead with a hydrology study for the Steels landfill site. Puffer said this study will cost tens of thousands of dollars and there is no provincial funding available.

The budget for the townships planning department is rising by a whopping 126 per cent this year. Although the percentage increase for this department is high, Puffer said the actual dollar amount isn't. "It's deceiving because there was not a lot spent in the past."

Part of the reason for the increased costs for planning is that the flood plain mapping is reaching a conclusion. In addition, money will have to be spent on the development of the industrial park.

Creating an attractive industrial park will cost the taxpayers this year, but once it is established the park will improve the tax base. Puffer said spending for this is "short-term pain for long-term gain."

Pollution plan will control development

Dysart council met with Ministry of Environment officials and the sewage plant consultants behind closed doors for almost two hours last Monday to discuss the expansion.

After the discussion, council passed resolutions requesting that the final engineering for the sewage plant expansion be carried out and that tenders be called for construction.

Councillor Murray Fearrey declared a pecuniary interest in the project and removed himself from the vote.

By calling for tenders, Dysart Reeve Bill Davis says the municipality is demonstrating its intention to "surge ahead" with the project. Just because the tenders are being called doesn't mean construction will begin next week, says Davis.

Davis says the pollution control plan will have a long-range effect on the lake chain and will determine how much effluent from the sewage plant the water can handle beyond the initial hook-up.

The proposed sewer line extension along the north shore of Lake Kashagawigamog will service business and resorts. An expansion of the existing sewage plant is necessary in order to handle the effluent from the new line.

The property owners on the lake had requested that the ministry "bump-up" the project to an individual environmental assessment.

However in denying the request for bump-up and allowing the expansion to proceed, Bradley said the phosphorous loading from the plant will not increase, the township will have to monitor water quality and the plant expansion will be improved in incremental stages.

Davis says not all the businesses will hook onto the sewer line immediately and that future hook-ups to the line will be subject to the pollution control plan.

The ministry is funding 81 per cent of the project costs with the municipality and the resorts paying the rest. Dysart has been given a grant of $1 million this year to cover start-up costs for the project.

The property owners association met at the Bonnie View Inn yesterday (Sunday) to discuss the plant expansion. Details of the meeting were not available at press time.

Committee should have broad range of members

basic policing."

Bernardi, the Minden detachment's liaison officer for community policing, said when Buchanan is not available another officer will serve as back-up. He said one officer from each shift will be identified to cover the village when Buchanan can't.

In February, Bernardi attended a course which covered community policing and explained some of the pitfalls that can be expected. "It's something you have to work your way through," he said.

He suggested that Dysart council may want to discuss setting up a police committee to direct Buchanan's activities. In Norland, another area which will be assigned a community officer, a public meeting was planned to introduce the concept to the residents and allow them to ask questions on a one-to-one basis.

Elliott said membership for the police committee should be from as broad a spectrum of society as possible. Various interest groups, including the township, seniors and businesses, could each be represented by a member on the committee, he said.

Including a student from the high school on the committee would also be an excellent idea, said Elliott.

Community policing involves assigning a specific officer to be responsible for a certain village or neighbourhood. The goal is to improve relations between the police and the community and give the residents a police officer they can get to know and identify with.

On a broader scale, Elliott says he is going to try to assign officers to patrol a specific area over the course of a year. By giving officers their own areas of responsibility, Elliott said the officers would get to know their specific areas and take pride in providing police services there.

"Basically, that is community policing," said Elliott.

The community policing will run for a year and then be evaluated to see how well it's working said Elliott. He said the municipality and the OPP aren't entering into any agreements and described the initiative as a "free-wheeling thing."

When picking volunteers to serve on the police committee, Elliott cautioned the council to limit the number to about eight people.

Cannon is jailed

Joseph Cannon, 58, a Minden building contractor, has been found guilty of Theft over $1,000 and three counts of Fraud over $1,000.

Cannon appeared before Judge Lloyd Wood on May 14 at the District Court in Lindsay. He was sentenced to 18 months in jail on each count (concurrent).

The charges stem from the fall of 1986 when Cannon was the Minden agent for Viceroy Homes. At that time, he took funds in excess of $70,000 from four people ordering homes. These funds were not sent to Viceroy.

There has been no retribution to the four victims to date.

Piping in the new

The skirl of the bagpipes and the beating of drums helped to add a festive air to the official opening of Minden's new Heritage Plaza Saturday. The Haliburton Legion Pipe Band provided musical entertainment prior to the ceremonies which marked the plaza's official opening. The complex is home to a variety of retail outlets and offices. The structure was described as a outstanding addition to the village's commercial community.

Melody makers take the stage

Student musicians delighted the audience Tuesday evening at HHSS as they presented their annual spring concert. Proud parents, friends, fellow students and teachers crowded into the high school gymnasium to enjoy the talents acquired by the students during the past school year.

The evening featured selections as varied as a Bach prelude to sixties rock and roll. Three groups took their turns on the stage, including the grade 9 junior band, the senior band and the stage band. The audience was also entertained by two solo performances. Dianne Garbutt demonstrated the talents which continues to win her accolades at music competition. Greg Hamilton, percussionist with Senior Band and Stage Band, stepped out from behind his drums to perform one of his own compositions on the piano. The evening also included a flute duet with Kelsey Newbatt and Laurie Smith.

The students offered a special tribute to music teacher and director Mr. Jack Gordon. This popular music instructor will be leaving HHSS in June and it was obvious by the comments offered by the students that his enthusiasm and dedication will be missed.

Minden wins hockey tourney

Playing together for the last time this year, the Minden County Juveniles captured the "B" championship at the Liberty Spring Invitational Hockey Tournament in Tyngsboro, Massachusetts.

Minden was the only Canadian team in the tournament that attracted eight different teams in the College Conference which was divided into two divisions, east and west.

Following games on Friday night and Saturday the two top teams of each division played off Sunday, for the "A" division, but since three of the four teams in the east division had won two out of their three games, they went by the team with the most goals minus the goals against, which would have been Minden. But since New Port, New York had lost all three games theirs games did not count. Which ended up dropping Minden down to third spot to play the third place team out of the west division, for the "B" championship.

Minden had to adapt quickly to the American style and rules of play in their first game Friday night. The absence of a centre line meant players could pass from behind their net as far down the ice as the opposition's blue line, resulting in a lot of quick action. The ice surface was about 20 feet wider than the Canadian rinks.

Minden began the tournament on a winning streak, beating Free Port, New York, nine to five. Scoring for Minden was Derrick Moore, Rob Ackerblade, Scott Russell, Brent Flood, Shaun Perrin, Scott Nesbitt, Pat Casey, Wyatt Nesbitt, and John Vuksic. Assists went out to Wyatt Nesbitt, Scott Nesbitt, Jason Stamp, Craig Smith, Bucky Byers, Vuksic, Russell, Ackerblade and Moore.

Minden came out hot again Saturday morning, beating New Hampshire six to five. The first forward line consisted of Flood, Russell, and Byers, which accounted for three of the six goals. Flood scored twice, assisted by Russell, Ron Perrin and Casey. Byers also scored from Shaun Perrin, and goaltender Gavin McKnight. Minden's other goals were scored by Smith, Vuksic, and Ron Perrin. Assisting on these goals were Wyatt Nesbitt and Shaun Perrin with two, Smith and Stamp with one.

Minden came back out Saturday night and lost five to two to the Ramapo Rangers from New York. Minden had actually scored four goals, which would have given them enough goals to qualify for the "A" championship. Unfortunately due to bad refereeing, two of Minden's goals were called back for no apparent reason. The referees also handed out 40 minutes in penalties to Minden, and only 12 minutes to the Rangers. Scoring Minden's goals were Byers, assisted by Russell and Ron Perrin, and the other goal by Ron Perrin, unassisted.

Minden captured the "B" championship on Sunday afternoon, beating the Suffolk team from Rhode Island with the score of four to one. Scoring three of the four goals was the first line of Russell from Byers, Flood from Russell, and Byers unassisted. Minden's other goal was scored by Wyatt Nesbitt from Smith.

Due to the fact of a team cancellation, Minden was asked to stay and play for the "C" championship against Dorchester, Massachusetts, and won that game with the score of four to three. Scoring for Minden was Russell from Flood, Flood from Vuksic, Flood unassisted, and Ron Perrin unassisted.

Minden would never have won any of their games without the help of their goaltender Gavin McKnight, who played exceptionally well throughout the tournament.

Minden's trip to the USA would have never been a go without the organization from Kevin Smith and the coaching staff of Gary McKnight, Harland Doige and Jeff Stamp.

Special thanks to all the drivers, spectators, and all those who sponsored the players in the skate-a-thon.

Minden skating season closes

by Linda Schrader

As the ice is melting in the Minden Arena, our skating season has come to an end.

We spent a busy full season with hosting our third Meet-to-Skate Competition, test days, carnival, powerskating, and played a large part in both fall and spring school.

We would like to thank our community for their continued support this season, the arena staff for their co-operation, for the parents who volunteered their time, The Times for their coverage and, lastly, the executive, who spent unending hours to make these events possible.

As the outgoing President, I would like to thank each one of the executive for their support during my two-year term as President.

Our new executive for the 1990-91 season are: Michelle Barkwell, President; Nick Pawluch, Vice-President; Sandy Hartwick, Secretary; Leitha Grexton, Treasurer; Toni Carr, Nancy Garbutt, Laurie Heming, Lynda Pawluch, Carolyn Steele, Stephanie Wells, Cindy Wilson, Joanne Berube, Donna McLeod, Joan Willbee, Marilyn Ranson, Marg Brohm, Sue Vanderlip, Ruth-anne Brohm as Directors.

I wish them the very best for the coming season.

Toronto development contrasts environment celebration

It was a beautiful clear day in Toronto on October 1, the opening day of a week-long Children's Environmental Festival at Harborfront.

I was asked to give a talk there and in the warmth of Indian summer, I walked down Bay Street to the lake. Even on a Sunday, Toronto was bustling—the streets were clogged with cars, buildings were being torn down or going up everywhere and the air was blue with car exhaust and other detritus that accompany economic 'success' in any city.

The festival is an important event—a chance for children to celebrate nature and see where they fit in the biosphere. But what are the lessons they really get in a city like Toronto?

I was shocked to discover that to a pedestrian on the street running along the harborfront, Lake Ontario, one of the greatest bodies of fresh water in the world, is virtually invisible! Instead of a lake, gleaming buildings—monuments to the economic engine that supports the country—provide the view and dominate the skyline.

To see the water, you have to squeeze along a sidewalk to the edge of the lake. And there on

by Dr. David Suzuki

encounters not a beach, but concrete right up to the water's edge. For much of area, the walks hang over the lake.

There is not one inch of untouched waterfront in downtown Toronto. What should be one of the few remnants of a natural condition in the city has become a tribute to human domination.

And across the street from the festival loomed the city's great pride, the Skydome, the world's only stadium with a retractable roof. Behind it rose the CN Tower, the world's tallest freestanding structure. The irony of the symbols surrounding a festival for children to celebrate the environment was overwhelming.

What on earth has happened to our sense of priorities? We pour more than half a billion dollars into the Skydome, yet seem unwilling to invest anything near that much to avoid an imminent garbage crisis or hazards of toxic chemicals in drinking water that affect our children. In a city with the best public transit in Canada, Toronto's streets are jammed with automobiles, most carrying a single person.

When I was in high school, I was taught that air is an odorless, tasteless, colorless gas. Yet any child in Toronto today knows that's not true.

Do you know that it costs $400 to plant a tree in the city of Toronto? We should be reforesting all of our cities but Toronto can only afford to plant 1500 a year. And why is it so expensive? The city's environment is so bad, small trees can't survive. So 10-year-old trees, which are tougher, and bigger, are bought outside the city and brought in. That costs money.

But do we really believe that young growing trees are so different from young growing children that it's all right to raise children in an environment that won't support a young tree?

On my way to the festival, I passed supermarkets with shelves and racks laden with fresh kiwi fruit

Haley Lynch, Michelle Carpenter and Carol Mowat receive their prizes from Federated Women's Institute President Jeanne Sears. The three were the winners of an essay competition sponsored by the past presidents of the F.W.I.C. in March. The competition, entitled "What should society be doing to preserve the environment" was entered by grade seven students at Archie Stouffer Elementary School and the essay by first prize winner Haley Lynch has been sent on to the provincial competition.

Environmental winners

by Haley Lynch

What should society be doing to preserve the environment? That's not a tough question at all! They could recycle the cans, tins, bottle, jars and plastic pop containers they use instead of just throwing them out and filling up the garbage dumps. Society could also recycle the paper they use, that way they are saving trees from being cut down.

Also, society could be using nonbleached recycled paper. That way, by using recycled paper, you are saving more trees from being cut down and by using nonbleached paper the manufacturers are not putting organochlorines into the environment which, as well as being harmful to it, is also one of the most potent causes of cancer.

While we are on the topic of harmful chemicals, I can tell you that a lot of cleaning products, such as dishwasher soap and bleach etc., have very strong chemicals in them to clean your clothes and dishes etc. Also, some of the sprays you use to help your cake not to stick to the bottom of the pan or to get rid of those yucky bugs or to hold your hair in place etc. All these things I just mentioned have harmful chemicals in them that ruin the ozone layer, lakes, rivers, streams, oceans and other things in the environment.

Another way to preserve the environment is a compost. That way you're putting back some of the nutrients you take out of the environment which is helpful. Some of things you can put in the compost are vegetables, orange, grapefruit and apple peels etc.

Another way, is not letting the tap run. If the water isn't cold, put a jug of water in the fridge. If the water isn't hot, heat some up. Don't just let it run, that's wasting water.

I have given you a lot of ideas. If you can think of more, great, if not, try some of these ones. But hold it, just before I go, I thought of one more way to preserve the environment. Society should not just talk, we should act!

the Woodfinishes for Your Needs.

The name Sikkens is synonymous with premium-quality woodfinishes worldwide. A brand of Akzo Coatings, a leading international paint company headquartered in Holland, Sikkens is the growing choice of Canadians who care about protecting their valued wood.

For your exterior wood applications.

Get maximum protection without obscuring true, natural woodgrain beauty. Try Sikkens Cetol 1 and Cetol 23, a highly durable, FULLY TRANSPARENT exterior woodfinish system. It's a difference you can see!

Need solid coverage that enhances the natural texture of your wood? Sikkens Opaque penetrates and protects as well as resisting blistering, peeling and chipping.

For your exterior doors, including garage, apply Sikkens Cetol TGL Plus, a specially formulated transparent finish offering excellent resistance to ultra-violet rays, water and rain.

For your interior wood applications.

Highlight the natural grain and texture of your hardwoods or softwoods with Sikkens TS Interior. This non-toxic, transparent satin finish protects, seals and stains. You'll love how it repels liquids and resists scuffing and yellowing.

Get added protection against yellowing, ultra-violet rays with Sikkens Cetol UV Interior.

from New Zealand, asparagus from Chile and plums from Peru. We are exchanging oil for the indulgence of fresh and exotic food year round. And the economic boom that keeps Toronto vibrant seems unconnected to loggers in the country trying to make a living while environmentalists fight to save the last bits of untouched wilderness.

We live in cities that disconnect us not only from the basic processes of extracting a living from the earth but from nature itself. It's as if in our human created environment, we believe we are somehow immune to the effects of deteriorating air, water and soil that are adversely affecting animals and plants all around us.

Gary Clements demonstrates the how-to's of tree-planting to students at Archie Stouffer Elementary School last Monday. Red and white pines were planted for Earth Day, a little late because the trees weren't available on time.

Tourism is the most exciting industry in Canada

When you think "tourism", what image do you see? A family of four in a station wagon on a two-week holiday? Buses filled with people seeing seven cities in six days? Water-slides and theme parks? You're only partially right.

Tourism is the most rapidly evolving and exciting industry in Canada today. It reflects our changing attitudes and tastes, and it's an economic powerhouse for Canada.

In 1988, tourism generated an incredible $24 billion: $17 billion spent by Canadians seeing their own country, and additional $7 billion spent by foreign travellers. This had made tourism Canada's second largest earner of foreign revenue, following automobiles and auto parts. In other words, more American dollars, Japanese yen, British pounds sterling, German Deutschmarks, etc. were spent on travelling in Canada than on buying Canadian lumber, wheat, petroleum, pulp and paper and agricultural products.

But the picture of this economic dynamo gets even better.

About $11 billion dollars of the total of tourism revenue goes into municipal, provincial and federal government coffers as taxes. $11 billion. That builds roads, schools, arenas, support social programs, all the services we've come to expect from our governments. Can you imagine what the tax bite would be if governments had to replace tourism generated tax income by other means? Our personal tax burden would increase dramatically to say the least.

Or think what would happen if we had to cut $11 billion worth of government services. Neither makes a very pretty picture. Not only that, but the federal government estimates that for every dollar spent by a tourist, an additional .67 cents is actually generated within the community. So that $24 billion sent by tourists in 1988 actually represents over $40 billion in economic activity in Canada.

by Bill Scott, M.P.

In 1988, 631,000 people were employed by tourism. An additional 577,000 in such sectors as retail, financial services, and so forth received part of their income by serving the travelling public. This represents one out of every ten Canadian workers—and will increase, because tourism is Canada's fastest creator of new employment.

The tourism product has changed to reflect the changes within our own society. The tradition of long holiday trips are being replaced by "getaway weekends". The stereotype of seniors on little bus tours is disappearing. Today's older traveller is sophisticated and eager to spend the time, and money, to explore new horizons. Adventure and nature tourism fulfill our need to experience this country at its best and most beautiful, and increases our understanding of the importance of preserving our heritage.

We are all travellers, whether it is to visit Aunt Mabel at Christmas, a world famous museum in a big city, or just to be part of the beauty and wonder that surrounds us.

TSW lake report

The Trent-Severn Waterway navigation season is scheduled to open on Friday, May 18.

Reservoir lakes are averaging 98 per cent full, and the canal route lakes have some surplus beyond summer levels to ensure the best start on a possible hot, dry summer.

Last year the average levels peaked at about 102 per cent on May 15. The volume of water entering the watershed upstream of Lakefield from March 15 to date has been just a little greater than the normal of 126,000 hectare-metres.

Wet weather has been the rule this past week (to May 11), throughout the watersheds and if heavier rains come, flows will have to be increased more to discharge the excess.

A large rain could delay the opening of the locks due to fast current in river sections and near dams.

Dams are dangerous structures to be around, so please make this summer a safe one by exercising caution when near them.

$93,000 for child care in Haliburton County

John Eakins, MPP for Victoria-Haliburton, has announced a total of $93,456 in grants to be divided between two child care organizations in the Victoria-Haliburton region. The announcement was made on behalf of Charles Beer, Ontario's Minister of Community and Social Services.

Eakins said that the funding would be awarded as follows:

CHACE Inc. (County of Haliburton Agency for Children Enrichment) will receive $47,094. Of this, $44,693 will go toward renovating the CHACE Inc. Day Care in Minden. The child care centre is already licenced to provide care for up to 22 children from two to five years old. With the expansion of its facilities, up to 15 new spaces will be created for children from six to 12 years old.

The remaining $2,401 will be used to purchase such items as books and tapes playground equipment to loan to the Dorset Mother's Playgroup. The Playgroup is a circle of mothers who meet three mornings each week at Dorset Elementary School with their children for recreational activities. The children range in age from three months to four years old.

Bobcaygeon Nursery School and Day Care will receive $46,362 to renovate its facilities. It is presently licenced to provide care for up to 39 children, including infants, toddlers, preschoolers and school-age children.

"I am extremely pleased that the Provincial Government is able to support these child services in the Victoria-Haliburton region," said Eakins. "They will go a long way in providing the best possible surroundings where children can play and grow with their peers."

Funding for the non-profit child care centres is in keeping with the priorities contained in the ministry's "New Directions for Child Care". These priorities include the provision of capital to support the establishment of non-profit child care centres and grants to assist with improvements to existing ones.

Challenge set to take a bite out of fundraising

by Carol Moffatt

The Epsilon Satellite/ Stanhope Firefighters Jaws of Life Challenge officially kicked off on Monday night. Archie Dobbins, owner of Epsilon has raised the challenge to the people of Minden and to other businessmen in town.

"I challenge other businessmen to match my offer," he said. "In a community where all rescue and fire work is done on a volunteer basis, corporate citizens like Epsilon Satellite can donate in other ways, such as this, when our own time is at a premium," he added.

The Jaws of Life is an important piece of equipment for any rescue team to possess. The Stanhope firemen are a first response team, which means they usually arrive at an accident scene before the ambulance. "You can't transport victims to the hospital until they're cut out of the car," said Stanhope Firefighter's Association President Bob Pollard.

In order to be a first response team, the men are trained in CPR, first aid and auto extrication. They are also responsible for assisting police with traffic flow around an accident scene and for cleaning up glass and debris afterward.

Each year, 1.2 million cars travel the highway 35 corridor and the increasing traffic means an increasing need for modern equipment, said Dobbins. "The Jaws will be used in the (highway) 35 corridor to augment the first response team," said Pollard.

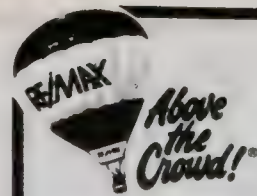

The Haliburton Fire Department owns a set of Jaws of Life, but valuable time is wasted by the time the first response team or ambulance attendants assess an accident situation and call for Haliburton's help. Jaws of Life in Stanhope means quicker extrication and medical attention for accident victims throughout the Minden area and up into Dorset.

Bright yellow donation boxes, built by the Stanhope team, have been placed in various businesses throughout the highway 35 corridor. Martyn Maver and Danny Stiver will be monitoring the boxes, accounting for the money in each and replacing them every two days.

"If this equipment saves one life alone, it will have paid for itself," said Dobbins. Minden and area residents have until the first week in July to reach the goal of $18,000.

Archie Dobbins, owner of Epsilon Satellite stands with Stanhope Firefighter's Association President Bob Pollard in front of the Jaws of Life fundraising thermometer. Dobbins holds one of fifty bright yellow boxes that will be in businesses along highway 35 until the beginning of July.

Call 286-1104

The children in Haliburton County in Kindergarten to Grade 3 inclusive, will be taking home seeds provided by the Minden Agricultural Society for a zucchini growing contest to be judged at the Haliburton County Fair August 18. Your co-operation in supervising the planting of the seeds and encouraging the children to keep their plants watered and weeded will be appreciated.

A reminder of the Museum meeting at the Library on Wednesday, May 23 at 9:30 a.m.

The friends of Hilda Harrison will be happy to know that the operation on her knee was very successful. She is convalescing at Riverdale Hospital, Toronto but will soon be home. Many thanks to Eddie Sedgwick for this information.

Legion euchre winners for May 10 included Margaret Fletcher, Marg McAfee, Joe Lumsden, Wyona Spicher, Casey Wilson and Norm Lee. The draw winners were Vivian Anderson, Bill Kleinschmidt, Lil Martin, Verna McDonald and Don Nye.

The winners of the Gelert Card Party were: lone hands Kit Schroter, high lady Helen Donaldson, low lady Ruth Kellett, high man Dorothy McElwain, low man Bob Vick. The draw for the quilt was won by Barbara Johnson of Carnarvon. The next card party will be held on Tuesday, May 22. Everyone welcome.

Since our own home grown rhubarb and strawberries will soon be in season, the following 'low fat' recipe might be of interest.

Rhubarb Yogurt 'Bavarian Cream with Strawberries'

3 cups chopped rhubarb 750mL,

3/4 granulated sugar 175 mL,

2 tsb orange juice 25 mL,

1 pkg (7 g) unflavoured gelatin

1 cup plain (5.9% B.F.) yogurt 250 mL,

2 egg whites

2 cups strawberries 500 mL

1/2 cup water 125 mL

In a heavy non-aluminum saucepan, combine rhubarb, sugar and orange juice; bring to boil, stirring often, over medium heat. Simmer for 5 to 8 minutes or until rhubarb is tender. In food processor or blender, puree mixture until smooth; transfer to large bowl. Sprinkle gelatin over water; let stand 1 minute to soften. Heat over low heat until gelatin dissolves; stir into rhubarb mixture. Let cool in refrigerator about 15 minutes or until slightly chilled, stirring occasionally. Mix in yogurt. Beat egg whites until soft peaks form; fold into rhubarb mixture. Spoon into individual dishes or a 6 cup souffle dish or rinsed non-metal mould. Refrigerate to set. Makes enough to 3/4 fill eight custard cups.

Per serving about 120 calories, 3 g protein, 2 g fat, 24 carbohydrates and a good source of vitamin C.

Club 35 euchre winners for May 14 included Ken Wallace for most lone hands, June Huffman and John Klok high lady and man and Thelda Weston for 50-50. Others were Fran Clark, Art Parker, Pearl Foster. A potluck supper will be held May 25 at 6 p.m. All welcome.

Good wishes for a speedy recovery to Audrey Northey of Minden who has undergone surgery at Toronto General Hospital recently. Feel better and come home soon Audrey.

Sincere sympathy is extended to the family and friends of Gertrude Clarke of Haliburton and Francis Noble of Wilberforce.

NEED A LIFT? Ralph Linstead has sold his Minden taxi service to Chris and Michelle Maskell, who are now serving customers from their base on the Lutterworth Boundary Road. Haliburton guests visit residents

Earl Cooper and Kathy Owens were here to play and sing for us. Earl played the violin and Kathy played the piano for a while and then Earl changed to the mandolin and finally Kathy played the accordion and she and Earl sang a few hymns. We thank them immensely for we really enjoy them.

Thursday afternoon was tea party time. We had a very enjoyable afternoon. The United Church Ladies provided a delicious lunch which was served by the Haliburton ladies, Dorothy Way, Dorothy Baker, Bernice Stewart and Eleanor Holmes. While we were enjoying our tea, Janice Benoit and Dianne Hagerman entertained us by singing and playing the piano. They certainly livened up some of those songs we used to sing. The residents really liked them and thank them for the lovely lunch and the entertainment and will be looking forward to their coming again.

With Nick Fomenko calling we had an interesting evening of Bingo. Thank you very much Nick.

Friday afternoon was

by Winnifred Barnum

Happy our in the auditorium. The Extencicare residents from Haliburton were special guests and I believe they really enjoyed themselves. For entertainment Margie Swanton sang and the music was played by Don White, Bill Geddie, Lloyd Madill, and Charlie Hadley. Lola Prentice and Mary McKelvey greeted the guests at the door to make them welcome. Linda and Doris mixed with them so they would have a good time. The volunteers Ellen Holden, Mary Guillemain and Jankie Thomas, who served and looked after the tables. Our sincere thanks to everyone who helped make this day a success.

Mother's Day Mrs. Marjory Rennick and Reverend Randy Warburton had a Sing Song in the afternoon. They sang songs to do with Mothers. Some of the residents, Lorne Fry, Mary McKelvey and several others said what a good singer Randy was. Thank you for making the afternoon so enjoyable.

Saturday Myrtle O'Halloran's son had dinner with Myrtle and Ann Collison.

Friday Terry and Norma took me to my sister's, May and Roy Cameron in Peterborough while they went to do some shopping.

Violet Thornett had visitors Sunday.

Mary McKelvey had Max, Vera and Ron Smith and their son Clifford to see her.

Pearl Lyle had Mother's Day dinner with her daughter Anna.

Those were unable to go out had a lovely turkey dinner with all the trimmings here at Hyland Crest. Beside each plate was a rose made by one of the residents, Winnifred Barnum and Judy Carpenter. The bloom of the rose was made by Judy of Royal icing. Winnifred made the stem which was covered with green crepe paper with a green leaf and a spray of baby breath down the stem and a tag saying "Happy Mother's Day" tied on with a bow of narrow lace.

Thanks to everyone who helped with the dinner in any way. Also thanks to the Nursing Staff who had to care for us that day instead of being home with their families.

Monday as I read the account of Mark Schell's retirement party last Wednesday I noted there was no mention of the resident's gift of a quilt made by the residents. Pearl Lyle made the waterlily blocks and embroidered some of the blocks with writing and Winnifred did the rest of the writing and sewed the blocks together. A bee quilted it and Carrie Drysdale bound it. I thought you readers might like to know this.

The Sunday evening Chapel Service was conducted by Reverend John Burgess. He spoke of Mary submitting to her son so he could do the work he was sent to do. Alice Jones played the organ. Those who attended thank Rever-

Sir Sandford Fleming College delivers balanced budget

A balanced budget of $43.6 million for the 1990-91 fiscal year was recently recommended to the Sir Sandford Fleming College Board of Governors by college president Brian Desbiens.

The major initiatives contained in the 1990-91 Financial Plan emphasize improved and expanded delivery of academic programs and services to students.

Total revenues are down $800,000 from last year.

Desbiens described the budget as "a difficult challenge". He said provincial funding has still not increased sufficiently to match increases in real costs. The cumulative decline in federal and Ministry of Skills Development funding, and the costs of new legislation, also continues to threaten college operations and services.

"Our achievement of a balanced budget is particularly significant, given the fact that our revenues, exclusive of capital, have only increased by 3.5 per cent, which is below the rate of inflation," said Desbiens. "I wish to recognize the staff for their tremendous effort and teamwork. We can be very proud of the progress that's been made over the past year."

"Our students come first," said Desbiens, "and the budget reflects the college's academic principles and priority objectives to reinforce this commitment. I am pleased to report that we are experiencing steady growth and meeting our enrollment projections. This is a positive indication of our ability to attract more students and serve their educational and training needs."

"We have preserved the academic integrity of our programs by maintaining the curricula and class room hours," added Desbiens.

The College has also made a significant capital investment to improve academic labs and equipment. Supplemental capital funds, recently announced by the Ministry of Colleges and Universities, have been allocated to academic upgrading and equipment, technology enhancement, and renovations for a total capital expenditure of $1.1 million.

Many of the Mothers received flowers from their families.

Alice Rivers had visitors on Mother's Day.

There weren't any movies shown Monday night.

Tuesday we had fun and fitness in the morning. Four ladies played cards in the main lounge and we had a discussion group in the craft room in the afternoon.

My sister May, Roy and Jacqueline took me for a drive to Haliburton Lake and we had dinner in Haliburton. From 7 p.m. to 8 p.m. we had reading in the small lounge. Dianna Morris read to us from a Danielle Steel book. Thank you Dianna, we enjoyed your reading very much.

to provide programs that are relevant and accessible to students, we are introducing three new certificate programs next year," said Desbiens.

New programs include: Marina Techniques, Construction Trades and Techniques and Security Alarm Installer.

"Our post secondary February admission and academic linkages with our local boards of education are other initiatives which we are continuing to develop with great success," said

Desbiens. "The tremendous co-operation and support from our communities has also strengthened relations with our industrial training partners."

"Development of our human resources continues to be another top priority," he continued. "Therefore provision has been made in the budget to support programs to develop and enhance the skills of our teachers, support staff and managers."

In addition to professional development, other budget highlights include support for establishing a permanent College Council, development of an alumni program, various environmental/energy management initiatives, and a scholarship for a Fleming graduate attending Trent University in honour of the university's 25th Anniversary.

The budget includes funding for the Vice President Academic, Principal (Lakeshore Campus) and Director of Employment Equity. These currently vacant positions, announced in last year's reorganization, will be filled during the 90/91 fiscal year.

EXPROPRIATIONS ACT

NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR APPROVAL TO EXPROPRIATE LAND

IN THE MATTER OF an application by the Corporation of the Township of Lutterworth for approval to expropriate land being part of Lot 5 in Concession XII of the Township of Lutterworth in the County of Haliburton for the purpose of expansion of its municipal works yard.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that application has been made for approval to expropriate the land described as follows:

Part of Lot 5 in Concession XII of the Township of Lutterworth in the County of Haliburton, designated Part 1 on a Plan of Survey dated the 22nd day of August, 1989, prepared by C.T. Strongman, O.L.S.

Any owner of lands in respect of which notice is given who desires an inquiry into whether the taking of such land is fair, sound and reasonably necessary in the achievement of the objectives of the expropriating authority shall so notify the approving authority in writing.

- (a) in the case of a registered owner, served personally or by registered mail within thirty days after he is served with the notice, or, when he is served by publication, within thirty days after the first publication of the notice;
- (b) in the case of an owner who is not a registered owner, within thirty days after the first publication of the notice.

The approving authority is

NOTES:

1. The Expropriations Act provides that,
 - (a) where an inquiry is requested, it shall be conducted by an inquiry officer appointed by the Attorney General;
 - (b) the inquiry officer,
 - (i) shall give every party to the inquiry an opportunity to present evidence and argument and to examine and cross-examine witnesses, either personally or by his counsel or agent, and
 - (ii) may recommend to the approving authority that a party to the inquiry be paid a fixed amount for his cost of the inquiry not to exceed $200 and the approving authority may in its discretion order the expropriating authority to pay such costs forthwith.
2. "owner" and "registered owner" are defined in the Act as follows:

"owner" includes a mortgagee, tenant, execution creditor, a person entitled to a limited estate or interest in land, a committee of the estate of a mentally incompetent person or of a person incapable of managing his affairs, and a guardian, executor, administrator or trustee in whom land is vested;

"registered owner" means an owner of land whose interest in the land is defined and whose name is specified in an instrument in the proper land registry or sheriff's office, and includes a person shown as a tenant of land on the last revised assessment roll.

3. The expropriating authority, each owner who notifies the approving authority that he deserves a hearing in respect of the lands intended to be expropriated and any owner added as a party by the inquiry officer are parties to the inquiry.

CORPORATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF LUTTERWORTH*NOTICE OF*A PUBLIC MEETING CONCERNING A PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO ZONING BY-LAW NO. 4-81*NOTICE OF MEETING

TAKE NOTICE that the Council of the Corporation of the Township of Lutterworth will hold a public meeting at 7:00 p.m. on the 28th day of June, 1990, at the Minden Community Centre to consider a proposed amendment to By-law No. 4-81, the comprehensive Zoning By-law, in accordance with Section 34 of The Planning Act, S.O., 1983, c.1., as amended.

LOCATION OF LANDS AFFECTED

The lands in question are located along the Gull River in Concessions XIII and XIV, Lots 3 through 7, in the Township of Lutterworth. The lands are graphically illustrated on the Location Map below.

PURPOSE OF AMENDMENT

The proposed amendment serves to make changes to the Zone Map to add an Environmental Protection (EP) Zone to correspond to the area along the River subject to severe flooding (floodway) and a flood fringe symbol is added to existing zone symbols for lands located in the less severely flooded area. The by-law adds corresponding regulations to control construction within the area subject to potential flooding.

REPRESENTATION

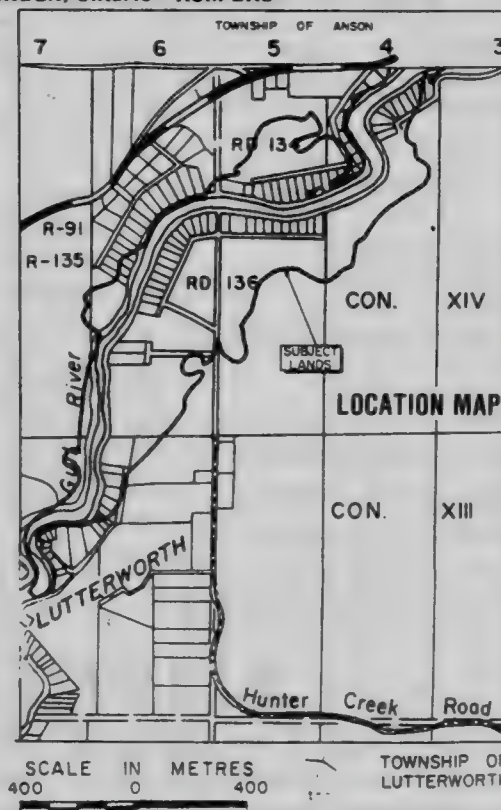

ANY PERSON may attend the public meeting and/or make written or verbal representation either in support of or in opposition to the proposed amendment.

INFORMATION

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION relating to the draft By-law amendment is available for inspection during regular office hours at the Municipal Offices.

Dated at the Corporation of the Township of Lutterworth this 2nd day of May, 1990.

CARD OF THANKS

William M. (Deac) Jackson.
The family wants to thank every for their kindness and acts of sympathy, of sympathy, donations of food, donations to charities and the beautiful flower arrangements. Special thanks to Earl & Emma Hewitt for having the luncheon at their home after the service. Thanks to all the ladies of St. Paul's A.C.W. for all the lovely food. Also thanks to Gordon Monk & family for their understanding and excellent care in our recent bereavement. Thanks to Rev. Brian Parker for his special visits to the hospital and his comfort and guidance in our time of need. Arnolda Wright, Joanne & Lloyd Brown, Tim, Toni & Ryan Jackson.

CARD OF THANKS

The Haliburton County Equestrians greatly acknowledge the sponsorship and/or donations from the following businesses with respect to our recent Show Clinic on May 13, 1990: Minden Jug City, Easton's Valu-Mart, Corner Store, Minden Home Hardware, Jadek Sports, R&R Variety, Sunny's Convenience, Brown Owl Restaurant, Minden Drugstore, Vasey Insurance, Minden Animal Clinic, Musically Speaking, Kawartha Dairy, Donald Finn, Dollo's IGA, Wagstaff Riverside, Midtown Sports, McMahon Feeds, Beckers, Sir Sam's Ski Lodge and Mrs. F. Cox. We'd also like to thank all the volunteers because without their assistance the show would not have been the success that it was. 5C

What a wonderful surprise! Thank you friends at the volunteer fire fighter's team in Stanhope for making warm memories in our new home. You're the greatest!

Tom & Melanie

We would like to thank everyone for your cards, prayers, good wishes and concern in the last 5 months.

Shirley & Steven Kuni

IN MEMORIAM

ROWDEN: Junior: Fond memories of my dearest son on his special day, May 23. Love with a love beyond all telling. Missed with a grief beyond all tears.

I love you Junior and miss you dearly.
Love always, Mom.

ROWDEN: Junior: Cherished memories of our dear brother on his birthday, May 23.

Dear Jesus, keep Junior in thy keeping.

Until we reach that Golden Shore.

Then dear Saviour, let us have him.

And love him as we did before.

Sadly missed and always loved by his brothers, sisters and a large family circle.

IN MEMORIAM

PERKINS, Toddy. Our dear nephew and cousin who died on May 24, 1989 at the tender age of four.

Spring is here again, the trees are budding the flowers are beginning to bloom.

Spring reminds me so much of you.

Your smile could light up any room as only the spring sun can.

I wish I could have made you smile more.

I remember how your eyes would open so big with excitement of something new. I still struggle with the WHY? WHY did God take such a sweet loveable child?

But I know now why he took you in the spring.

He wanted one of the most precious, sweetest flowers to bloom in his garden in heaven. Save a spot in your garden for us so we can grow together again.

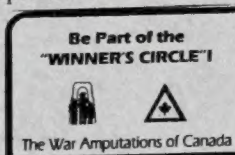

We miss you Toddy every day.

Love Aunt Cathy, Uncle Dan, Denis & Daryl Arbour.
